

Nowadays, not only companies but also individuals use social networking services to send out various information in the form of video. They may want to use impressive images and inspiring music to get their message across effectively. However, it is not allowed to use copyrighted materials such as images, photos, music, illustration, narrations without permission. It is also very difficult to contact the author directly to obtain the permission.

We have collected a number of art works that are “partially reprintable” for use on corporate and personal websites and SNS. You can also use the artworks for physical events and shopping malls. We hope this will help you to realize effective advertising and public relations. You can purchase the content by signing the “Non – Exclusive Copyright License Agreement”.

Purchase can be made through the STORES on our website. If you wish to purchase (or use) the material , please contact below prior to your planned purchase.
